Channelsea House is a development of 72, studio, one and two- bed, newly converted apartments located in Stratford.

Externally, this East-London renovation has been given a contemporary, urban finish. In contrast, the sleek interiors offer open plan layouts with bright, spacious and modern living accommodation.

Based in the heart of Stratford, this location is truly thriving. Since the initial investment towards the 2012 Olympic Games, it has continued to see regeneration projects flourish, making these ideal properties for both first time buyers and investors.
